THE FIRST EVER EUROPEAN DUKE ELLINGTON CONFERENCE

Grand news for Ellington fans -> especially on this sida of the Atlantic. Following the successof the 1983 Washington and 1984 Chicago conferences in America, the 1985 Duke Ellington conference is to be held in Eryland. As at previous conferences, in attandence will be many of the world's leading diseographers, biographers, record producers and distinguished critics from Europe and America - as in earlier cases a meeting of fellow enthusiasts from all parts of the world - the wonderful world of Duke! This event will take place et Birch Hall, Oldham (Gt. Mannchester), England. Ta urge you to make any effort to take advantage of this possibility to attend. To begin with just send a letter of intent toi Eddie Lambert, "Ellington '85", 92 Hadfield Street, Oldham, 0L8 3EE, Lancs, England. The celebration will take place on the Whit weekend, Thursday 23 to Sunday 26 May, 1985. As soon as full details of guest speakers, other events and fees are known, they will be forwarded to you. Your letter of intent places you under no obligation to attend. Together with your enquiry a large S.A.E. (Self Addressed Envelop) will be appreciated. Don't wait - write Eddie right away!

You aty recall that in Feb/H**rch 1962 we corresponded on the subject of ay thesis on Duke's aiÿhods of coapoaitloa. I as glad to be able to tell you that it is now all complete and that I have obtained a degree of Master of Arts in ■usicology at the University of Keele through this work. Then, In 1962, you were Most kind to include details of ay work in the Aug/Oct 1962 Ikilletlni Much valuable data ensued fron this publication. Just to let you know the contents of ay work and the detail I have covered, I enclose a Synopsis of the thesis herewith) please accept this with ay coapliaents. If you feel that I could soaetiae contribute a short analytical article(coaplete with notated auaic) to your aost infcreative Bulletin, I would be aost happy to send this to you, again with ay coapliaents, to repay soae of your help to ae in the past.

If there are any things in the Synopsis which you feel may interest your readers, please reproduce any you wish. I would be aost pleased.

It has been suggested by ay supervising Professor at Keele University that a book could be derived from ay dissertation. In this abition, Vivian Perlis, Director of the Oral History Project at Yale University (where they have a fine Ellington archive) has also encouraged ae, with these words*

Here la the original ABSTRACT to the Theaiai

This is an Investlytloa into Jess coapoaer/plsnlat/orcheatxa-leader Duke Ellington's aethoda of coapositlon with particular aaphaala on works which he had written, performed and recorded with Ms musicians between 1939 and 1943, yaara which have coat to be recognised as kie aost fruitful period.

1945, yaara which have coat to be recognised as kie aost fruitful period. The dissertation begins on a cubaission that dllngton was the first genuine jar* composer, then proceeds, first, In support of this, with an examination of the cospositional processes he evolved and followed, quoting from hie own statements, those of qualified observers, and of his own ausiclans. The importance of his carefully-chosen personnel to the satisfactory concretion of his ideas Is discussed In detail. The Influences of antecedent styles on his susle — the blues (resided as a Black folk auaic and the parent of all legitisate jaxr) and zagtlae (seen as the superlaposition of sophisticated urban susleal forms and practicss upon naive and intuitive folk procedures)—are discussed and analysed. Ellington's gifts as a melodist and aong-writer are examined! this touches upon the commercial aspects of his ixvolvensnt will popular dance nuale.

Eight complete Ellington works selected fron the 1939 to 19*() period, sad twe froa later yearm( also coaplete) have been transcribed, especially for this project, from the original recordings — notated as played — and analysed on satters of form, harmony, style and allegiance to antecedent influences. Conclusions drawn from these individual investlytlons are presented In support of the original aubaiaaion that Duke was a genuine Jams composer.

The Themis concludes with a series of Appendices(Which include four verbatin transcripts of interviews given by Ellington on radio and television between 1939 and 1973) and a full index. ...0000000...

THE THESIS

Introductory Prefsce/AcknowledgesSots/ Duka Ellington, 1899 to 1974, m Chronology PABT I

DUKE JLLINCTON'S APPROACH TO COMPOSITION (prior to the Suaalt Years) Chapter I Introduction! Early Influences(e.g., James P. Johnson) and including Ellington's own Declaimtloo of Intent, published in Rhythm Magpsine, 1931.

THE INFLUENCE OF TO HUES

Chapter II THE INFLUENCE OF TO HUES

Music transcribed! Main Stem(excerpt. 1942)/Body and Soul(John V.Greet), excerpt f Coleman Hawkins' improvisation, 1939)/Take It Etsy (Bibber Miley solo, 1928)/K° Ko (Kenton solo, 1940)/Sweet Chariot (Msston solo, 1930)/ Things Ain't What They Used To Be (Hedges solo, 1941).

The above examples(as with all subsequent scores and axtimete) are integrated int the text, which traces the roots of 20th Century blues — microtonal intervals, non-tempered pitching, the 'blues scale'; the connection between blues chromatidas and voicing of the higher dominants, Into chords which became characteristic of Ellington's orchestral voicing and melodic constructions; there is analysis of blues solos by Alley, Kanton and Hodges. Ison Conclusions! Ellington accomplished an aesthetically acceptably Vof the sounds ar style of Black rural blues with the conventions and traditions of White urban mm asking, the hybrid thus stabilised being clearly identifiable aa deriving froa the Black culture, but expressed is terms of the White culture, neither being the loser.

THE INFLUENCE OF RAGTIME

V.uslc transcribed! The Charleston Rag(Blake, excerpt,1971)/The Carolina Shout(She<music,1925, excerpts from piano roll,c.1918)/Soda Fountain Rag(Duke solo,excerpt, 1964)/ Jig Welk(Duke, piano roll, c.1923)

Syncopation defined, syncopation-types codified for future reference in analyses! ragtime considered as being largely shaped in matters of harmony, composition, presentation and for syncopation being seen as the Black influence) by White European conventions. Ellington's adoration of James P. Johnson's The Carolina Shout is noted as, seemingly, Ellington had found —on his own admission—and no doubt, Intuitively, this work to be the aost complete jam* composers' box-of-tricks' available to him at the time. The Carolina Shout is subjected to a bar-by-bar analysis, identifying archaic pre-rag, pre-ja*t forms — the 'ring shot the blues(referring back to chromaticism, and noting the simulation of non-temper? pltchlng)and development from and beyond classic ragtise. Plano scores of the Du-Soda Fountain Rax and Jim Walk are analysed in depth — blues and rag devices identified throughout. Conclusions! Ellington's modus operandi confirmed to be m catalyst in accelsrmthr the process of acculturation proceeding between the two quite different musical cultures noted above — much a matter of unequal opportunity — | the one displaying, predominantly, natural, untutored Inproviaatlonal Flair, both rhythmically and aelodlcally, the other demonstrating conservatory-trained formalism, discipline and technical accomplishment. He is found to have evolved a solid and personal style which was, In the fullness of its development, to create its own traditions.

(b) 4, 30 SLUES (1969) Full orchestra, Russell Procope solo clarinet. Major/minor blueS ambivalence confirmed ty analyais of Duke'm piano introduction to this piece} the compatibility existing between the traditional 'blue notes' (from the sololsti Improvisations) and the Europeanised Impressionistic extension (by the composer-arranger) of the higher dominants from the fundamental 12-bar blues harmonies is noted.

CONCLUSIONS and COKPART SONS

The complex connection existing between the mature Ellington Style and modus operand!, and the Influences exerted on his oeuvre by rural bluem, urban ragtime and the practical requirements of Tin Pan Alley summarised and revised. Contemporary developments In orchestral jams, and neo-Ja**, composition and perform*! areu,*pared with the Ellington Style.

The Ellington blx*(unusual/original Instrumental Volcingm)ls noted, and specific Instances referenced directly to their location on the transcription scores. The significance of the roles underteXen by the Ellington men In the final concretion of his concepts by recorded performance(the surviving evidence) is recalled.

A selection of the final conclusions drawn from the complete study:

 $\ldots$  made the greatest and most significant contribution to the  $J_{\mbox{amS}}$  repertoire to date.

... successfully bridged the oft-Implled chasm separating the conservatory from the honky-tonk.

... possessed an instinct which invariably led him to recognise, then recruit and exploit the kind of musicians whose Idiosyncratic, folk-based styles — allied to sound musicianship and improvlnational ability — could both rmalice and accurately reproduce the textures and conceptions he had In mind.

... conceived the 'Ellington Effect' through the unique approaches noted above) not so much through academic practice, as hie work more often than not evidenced only a tenuous connection with the tenets of strict counterpoint and harmony.

... achieved, without recourse to musical anarchy. — by him direction of a 'speciallfolk-blues-based style of musicianship — a degree of liberation from the strictures imposed by the European system of 12 notatlocally-equal semitones.

Overall, Duke's works are enhanced by his natural gift for the creation of meaorabla melodies.

Because of equipment malfunction, I can't yet announce the availability of the videotape I am producing on Jack Tower*' presentation at the DE Study Conference, but it WILL be available! We're working on it, I do, however, want to respond to the discouraged report by Morton on p.5 of the 84/3 Bulletin. I had the opportunity at the Conference to share some of my collection of Ellington on video with those in attendence, and deliberatly restricted myself to those which are "commercially" available, in both BETA and VHS formats in this country. Granted, most video stores do not stock much jazz (except for the recent Sony Beta HI-FI's) but a major chain like VideoShack in New York City lists quite * few Ellington videos in their catalogue. They can get them on order.

Among these are the All-Star "Best of Jazz, Vol. I" with Symphony in Black sad "The Duke Ellington Story". Wkile All Star Jazz is defunct, Reel Images seems to have taken over the catalogue to keep the classics in distribution. Also available: Check and Double Check; Showtime at the Apollo (contains soundi.es); Ella Fitzgerald (some numbers with Duke from the Cote d'Azur session); The Timex All-Star Jazz Show (1958); a trubute to Louis Armstrong m 1972 with a little of the Ellington band - Jazz Festival; and a Lou Rawls show in which Duke plays one number and plays behind Lou. Less available are occasional outbursts like Jazz Ball, containing material from "Bundle of Blues". There is an active trading network in which a great deal more material can be found, almost all of the soundies, most of the broadcast television shows, and most of the band's appearances on film. Quality is extremely variable, of course, and few of us can transfer from the American to the European standard (that works both ways -iaportmt European tapes are not in our network!),

And finally, my all-time favorite, broadcast live in 1957 and reputedly lost forever, his A DRUM IS A WOMAN, is in the collection of the Museum of Broadcasting in New York City where anyone may go to see it. It's black and white (the way most of us saw it then anyway) but extremely good quality kinescope.

So Duke lives,

THE DE STUDY GROUP CONFERENCE MAY 16-19, 1984

Though Sjef Hoefsmit has already given an account of this year's Conference, a few additional observations to round off the picture see* appropriate. Together with the report Don Miller is expected to write, these efforts will present the Conference in its totality.

In contrast to the events described by Sjef that were devoted to the topic of faithful reproduction of Duke's music (Transcriber's podium discussion w. Dr. Gunther Schuller, a.o.; University of Illinois Jazz Ensemble concert under Dick Wang), there were two events demonstrating once again the suitability of Ellington's compositions for interpretation in widely differing jazz styles:

Chicago pianist Dick Campbell, a young man on his way to a New York engagement and general acclaim, entertained the Conference participants during "The Opener", the first night reception on May 16th.

Two nights later, we were treated to a marvellously relaxed presentation of Duke's music by a group under the leadership of guitarrist Kenny Burrell. Imported from New York, the group featured one ex-Ellingtonian in trombonist Britt Woodman, who also graced that night's meating at the hospitality suite with his presence. Other surprise visitors that night at the hotal were singer Joe Williams, in town for a concert the next night, and promotor/producer Gene Norman.

At the hospitality suite, there were on constant display two most interesting exhibits. One, by Gwen Pittard, reached back to the 1940s and IXike's Chicago visits of that period, in newspaper clippings and other memorabilia. The other exhibit bore testimony of Duke's close allegiance during the 1950s to Chicago's "Blue Note" and its owner, Frank Holzfeind. Betty Cortez, Holzfeind's close aide, was responsible for a memorable collection that included copies of Duke's Blue Note contracts.

Another lady deserves to be singled out from among the Ray Nance Chapter's organizers for her tireless effort on behalf of the Conference during the seminar sessions, which were held at "her" building on the University of Illinois at Chicago campus - and for the social attention she lavished on this writer during and after the conference: Dr. Susan Markle, scholar and teacher in modern media, was also instrumental in setting up an interesting evening of Ellington films, and she provided fascinating entertainment with a presentation of Ellington on videotape as well.

With due respect to all who attended and gave to this writer and his wife of their warmth and friendship during the conference, the Ellington aficinado in me will always relish the memory of having been in the presence, simultaneously, of the two men who provided us "Ellingtonians" with the two most memorable private recordings of IXike's career, Jack Towers (Fargo, 1940) and John Steiner (Civic Opera House, Chicago, 1946).

Recollections of the 1984 Conference would be grossly incomplete without acknowledging the fact that all participants were presented with a free copy of the cassette of rare Ellington recordings prepared by Sjef Hoefsmit - and detailed in the latest 0EMS Bulletin, p.7.

Likewise, all were treated to a special souvenir record of Duke Ellington solo and trio recordings, produced expressly for the conference by resourceful Jerry Valburn. This is one small record that is certain to become a collectors item!

If I may end on a very personal note: To this writer and his wife, among a small and fortunate group of conference participants remaining fa Chicago beyond the official proceedings, the ioing on the top of the cake, so-to-speak, came in form of an invitation to attend a Sunday brunch at the home of none other than Kay Davis, Duke's beautiful singer of the late 1940s.

Happily and comfortably married in Chicago since her departure from the Ellington band, in 1950, Ms. Davis provided us with a most memorable meal and recollections and anecdotes shared in the warm atmosphere of her beautiful

★ BELLE OF THE NINETIES ■ "Ily Old Flame" (see 84/3-7): The recording release with this Mae West/Duke Ellington collaboration have two different original sources, which explains existing differences! Originally, a three-minute--plus "Pre - Recording" was Bade, which appears on the following records!

Biltmore 101* (78 rpo), Cosmopolitan 7501 (78 rpm)

RCA(F) FPM-7002, PM-43697

MCG-3517 Caliban 6036

For inclusion in the film's soundtrack, the pre-recording was edited down to about half its running time, as follows: A section of 52 bars was edited after the two-bar piano introduction and 24 bars of Mae Vest's vocal. The final 8 liars are intact, then.

This edited soundtrack version appears on the following records:

FDC(I) Ariston(1) 12031

It is certain that Ellington and his men, with or without Mae Vest, made at least one more pre-recording of "My Old Flame". From this, there is a fragment on the film sound  $\nearrow$   $\land$  "ALL STAR GOLDEN CLASSICS - THE DUKE ELLINGTON STORY" track immediately following Mae West's version, as an in  $\nearrow$  (see 84/3-5 "Video News"): Film (1), of course is not strumental reprise.

Some loose ends remain with regard to "My Old Flame"! The date generally given as a recording date for the number, April 23, 1954, seems hardly likely. According to my research, Ellington's men had been at work on the film then for more than a month. It must be assumed that in accordance with the regular movie production schedule, the prerecordings would have been made first, before the band went into rehearsals and actual filming. If indeed the pre-reoordings had been made no sooner than April 23, then there would have been precious little time for Ellington and his men to be filmed in those fairly intricate scenes with Mae West - they left the L.A. area on a tour of theatres in the Pacific Northwest briefly after their May 9 L.A. recording date, playing Portland, Oregon, on May 12, for instance.

Instead, it is believed that the pre-recordings were made during the second half of March or early in April, at

The date of April 23, it is believed, is that on which the original pre-recording was transferred to an RCA matrix, receiving an RCA matrix number within the ohronologieal sequence, and entered into the RCA files,

It remains yet to be established which way the Paramount pre-recording ended up on an RCA master, as film pre-reeordings normally remained the property of the film studio and its recording unit. It ia speculated that Paramount employed RCA Photophone recording equipment and RCA's West Coast laboratory servicies for processing, but this is uncorroborated. At any rate, there is something irregular about this RCA master. (Stratemann)

() MASKS AND MEMORIES (see 84/3-7)i Information on this film, when circulated among Ellington aficionados earlier this year, ended up with the suggestion that the film could have included the Ellington band in some capacity because "it was out there on the West Coast aakijg films anyway" (in 1934). Well, this just oannot be so. MASKS AND MEMORIES was made at the Warner Brothers Vitaphone studios in New York, around March-May, 1934, to be theatrically released on July 19, 1934.

At no time during this period were Ellington and his men near the Vitaphone studios, as they did not return to New fork, from the West Coast and their film work, before the last wmek of June, 1934, when they slated to play the Capitol Thaatra, NYC, for a week, beginning June 29, 1934. Prior to that, they worked their way over from the Coast, on a 6-week string of Fanchon t Marco theatre dates.

At the risk of disgressing too much, I would also like to point out the fact that it is highly inconceivable that Irving Mills, Duke's promotor at the time, and a man with a keen sense for the promotional value of films, would have permitted the use of Ellington's band in such a film without aeing the eolleboretion properly credited, in its opening credits. "Music by Duke Ellington" indioates nothing more then the use of Written music for a film.

There is one insysnee in Duke's film career in which the band contributed to a film without being credited, "MANY HAPPI RETURNS"(1934), mentioned in earlier Bulletins, but that particular incidence would require a lengthy explanation and is outside the scope of these writings. (Details shall be forthcoming in my book on Duke's film career). MASKS AND MEMORIES, unfortunately, is not a Duke Ellington (see 84/3-5 "Video News"): Film (1), of course is not "Goodyear TV", but rather the well-known short film made on 9Jan62, for use as a promotional film in theatres out side the U.S, and Canada.

Film (3) is a Norman Granz production for National Educat ional Television (NET), filmed late July, 1966, during the jazz festival at Juan-1es-Pins, France. The correct title is "ELLINGTON AT THE COTE d'AZUR", and it was originally televised in June, 1968. Concert footage was filmed and recorded on 28Jul66, the Ellington trio footage was filmed and recorded at the "Foundation Maeght", a museum at St. Paul de Vence near Cannes, probably on 27Jul66. There Ellington is seen in the company of Spanish painter/sculptor Juan Hiro. For details on the music, consult DESCR 1040. The unknown b 1 dm are John Lamb and San Woodyard, respectively.

Ella Fitzgerals, on some tracks, is accompanied by Jimmy Jones Trio: Jones(p), Jim Hughart(b), Grady Tate(dm).

For further background on this film, and details of music and footage, again, please be patient until I can get my (Stratemann) book published.

DElis comments: Our Files confirm the date to be 27Jul66. The name of the museum is Musee d'Art Pictural. Tha titles in this portion of the COTE d'AZUR film are as "Tingling Is A Happiness", "Variations on the follows: Night Flock" (• "Hie Shepard" as mentioned in DESCF, followed by something that is simply referred to as "Rockin", which seems to be the piano variations (hownever not "Kinda Dukish") Duke so often used leading into "Rockin' In Rhythm". This piano portion is not mentioned in DESOR.

THE ELLINGTON SOLOISTS (1): JOHNNY HODGES

Johnny Hodges was, quite properly, it seeds to ae, recognised as being Duke Ellington's premier soloist, and therefore ay transcription of one of his aost elegant and characteristic solos serves as an admirable choice to introduce this series of exteaporisations by the Ellington Hen.

As with many of the Duke's memorable melodies, this one was surely conceived with the Hodges genius in mind? It presents a delicately poised paraphrase of the original lovely tune, and Johnny's exquisite decorations are a joy to hear — and see!!

DISCUSSIONS - ADDITIONS - CORRECTIONS

PABLO titles and dates* My source!* being the Pablo sleeve notes, DESOR and "60 Years of Jazz on Record" by Bruyninckx, are confusing, especially for the dates of "Up In Duke's Workshop". (Moriarty)

DEMS: You are not the only one to have been confused in thes I matters. Already the very first Pablo release caused questions concerning dates and titles. Subsequent releases has added to this, and we have gathered askings for DEJS comments from many members. Thus we are, beginning on I/A Sooe ti>e ,go page 9, presenting a Pablo releases and recording dates survey presenting our latest research efforts.

I have recently seen a TV commercial advertising a cellophane product which is used for wrapping and storing food, the main virtue of which is that it is highly selfadhesive, In other words, It Clings. In the commercial, a succession of actors appears before the camera, each of them singing, "It don't mean a thing if it ain't got that cling", to a very familiar tune. Another example of Ellington in the cultural mainstream, you might say, or, If you are of a more recondite turn of mind, of Bubber Miley.

Who is SYLVIA? She's included on Columbia FC-56028 in the GIRL'S SUITE, listed in the liner notes as recorded Aug 19 & 20, 1961. Can you identify when "Sylvia" was recorded? In addition, any ideas about who she might have been. She sounds like an upbeat beauty to me, DEMS: This Columbia release is commented on in Bull82/5, p.2 where correct dates are given. The date on the sleeve is false and should read 19-2CScp6l, "Sylvia" is recorded in Hollywood, 19Sep6l, and comes between "Juanita" (RCH0-70346) and "Lena" (-70348). Consequently "Sylvia" has the mx RCHO-79347), contrary to what is given in limner,

"Sylvia" refers to one of the songs remembered from Duke's childhood, according to the liner notes, like "Peg O' My Heart", "Sweet Adeline", and "Juanita".

MIST takes (211-12): The question of which takeW is which on the various releases has been discussed quite vjfc 6 Oct 47 and 20 Nov 50 Columbia sessions: The drummer a few times in the Bull (see 83/4, a.o.). Mr. Yuze is the latest one to have made a thorough investigation, which together with what earlier have been stated by Mr. Debroe and Mr, Gautier, and our latest research results in the following:

take -1 RCA FXM1-7301

(78s): Victor 27856, 82-0152, A25V-0320; take -2 HKV B-9292, EA-5429, JK-2454 (LPs): RCA LPM-1092, 430227, 750559, LPV-541, EPC-1092 (547-0594), RA-40; Camden OJ-25091 (EP)t 7EG-8153

and according to Mr, Carmack's result (see 84/1-3) take -2 is the one used for the Franklin Mint 4-LP set "DE - Great Jazz Classics", Finally, and once for all, the take number given in the liner notes on LPV-541 as -1 is a mistake and should consequently read as -2.

DOCTOR JAZZ V2X-39157 C&4/2-3, »t al)« The material Jreleased on this LP, by Bob Thiele, was recorded by Wally Heider, privately, and never intended by him for general release. As one not directly involved in the production side of records, one wonders how the LP's producer secur $\neg$ ed the rights to this material. However the LP may have come about, we, the Ellington collectors, are the richer (Stratemann) \ for it,

Is it planned to publish a WWofDE 44-45-46 volume, as it is rumoured - or a new issue of DESOR prior to 45?
(Merlin)  $\overline{\text{DEMS}}_{\underline{t}}$  There is another WWofDE volume oovering the balance of 47 and all of 1945 ready for publication. For various reasons the project has been postponed. We will still have to wait soaiewhat. Concerning some re-worked DESOR editions haven t heard of such plans. However, Dick is working on another Duke disco 1957 up to 6Mar40 to i°ÿn first of the WWofDE volumes.

FESTIVAL 228. One record contains 50Jan65 recordings, the other selections said to be from Mar52, NYC. Can DEKS furnish further details? (Aarnio) DEMS: This album is commented on in Bulls80/1-4 and 80/3-7VT?, Here is a short repeat: The 30Jan65 selections comes from the 2nd part of the 9PW Theatre Champs Elyses concert and are the same as also issued on Musidisc JA-5189 and on Jazz Club JC-124, (By the way, sooe additional titles from this same event can be found c.i the "Ten Years later" CA-2 cassette)(see 84/5-7), The date for the other LP is false. Dates and locations should read as follows: 2May51 (TV "Kreisler Bandstand") Take The A Train /Some thing To Live For / Caravan / I Got It Bad / Do Nothin' Till You Hear From Me / 23Jun51 (Be from Birdland) Fancy Dance (sic 0) The Hawk Talks/Swamp Dram/Feb49 (KECA bes, from the Hollywood Empire Room) Main Stem/You Oughta/Solitude/How High The Moon/23Jun5l(ctd.) Threesome (consisting of VIP's, Boogie 1 Jam With Sam), The 2&23June selections are also issued on Session 107 and the Feb49 selections also on Ozone 12, "How High The Moon" also on Palm Club 24. The KECA material has earlier been used for AFRS "Just Jazz" transcriptions - these in turn the basis for the LP v-a

CBSÿ66677 (see Bull84/3-2): Azalia, Something To Live For, I Love My Lovin' Lover (different take on Columbia CG-33961), Blues, and Body And Soul are all identical to UTD-2004/2006. (T Larsson)

on these sessions does not at all sound like SG, but in both cases more like s disciple of the Jo Jones school. Could it be Butch Ballard on 20Nov50? I think that SG plays timpani on "Build That Railroad", but who is the drummer of the 6 Oct 47 session? Any ideas?

A query for DEKS: I heard a recording on the radio of Duke and the orchestra playing, probably in concert, his usual medley of Ellington tunes; this medley ends with Ozzie Bailey singing "Solitude". Can someone identify the recording and tell if/where it can be purchased? (Hudson) DEMS.*, 0*zie Bailey was featured on "Solitude" as included In the Medley during the Oct-Wov58 European Tour, He was likewise featured on "Solitude" during Apr57 - 1C6ep59 and Mov59 - Feb60. The only LP we can think of right now is Musica Jazz 2MJP-1005 which ends with Duke announcing "Solitude" (from 6Nov58 concert) and fading out, leaving the OB vocal unheard, contrary to what you experienced on the be. Perhaps some DEKS member can help solving the problem?

OP EVERYBODYS 5003 (see this issue): Do you know if the 29Kov44 "Things Ain't What They Used To Be" selection can be found on any other LP elsewhere? (Merlin) DEMSy. No, it isn't. It is exclusively to be found on the Everybodys label.

WWofDE session 40-12 (cf Bull63/3-7): Another reason dating this March 1940 is that & is present. ft0ÿ° should read:

I am exited about the tape CA- 2 put together by soot experts, now available to members for personal use. This is such a great idea fbr collectors, is there another plan to compile another "members only" tape? Could be the annual "rare" concert made from member inputs, maybe only to those who send you a cassette with a selection, a full tape voted on by members to pick the most needed (like you did with the Hurricane). Probably would be at cost, to prevent it from being commercial. Just a thought for your consideration, (Kennan)

DOE*. Your idea for an annual "members only" cassette release is simply great and in line with our efforts to spread the Master's sounds and things enriohing our members, Here is consequently an invitation to all of you to let us know what you yourself most of all should like to be included in such a next annual tape collection. One selection (plus an alternative) from each member is accepted. There is in most cases no need to send your suggestion on a cassette - just send a SEPARATE SHEET (don't forget to add your name - please print). According to the votes received a master tape will be produced allowing for making cassette copies needed. As in earlier cases no commercial aspects will be involved. All For Die Love Of Duket

Duke's very last stage appearance* It is beyond our ken that so little was recorded (see BU1184/1-6, 84/3-8). Bob Davis made the introduction. He insists that all he could convince the engineer to record was the introduction, The engineer was strict on union rules and would not record any of the music. He says further that security was very tight to keep out personal recorders, that if any recording does exist it would have to have been made from the audience, I fear we must assume that there is no recording of the concert, except for what may exist in the hands of a person who has no idea of the historical value of what they have.

By the way, Bob has written very poetical about that night. It was his last meeting with Duke, He has played his scrap of tape (his intro and the few bars of "Take the A Train") on radio with an introduction that will bring tears to the eyes of an Ellington enthusiast, I have a tape of that which I cherish. (D Miller)

FROM DON'S PLACE

"• the greatest group of Ellington experts ever together.•" That Is the description given to the 1984 DUKE ELLINGTON STUDY GROUP CONFERENCE by Sjef Hoefsmit in the 1984/3 issue of the DEUS BULLETIN. I do sincerely appreciate Sjef'a description for that is exactly what I hope all conferences will be.

I hope each sueoeeding conference will exceed the quality of the previous neeting.

Of the eight sessions over four days there were three which included exciting live music. Rare quadraphonic recordings of DE threw the participants into ecstasy, end we offered also lectures, panels, and most unusual demonstrations. Please refer to our "shopping list" for what we are able to provide on tape.

I **a Including also the balance of the program as presented. All sessions were successful. The appeal of individual sessions was, of course, in the eyes and the ears of the beholder. I do not believe that anyone was disappointed. We of the Ray Nance Chapter of the DUKE ELLINGTCN SOCIETY are very pleased with all of the flattering comments we have received. The conference did include something for every person in attendance.

People came from as far east as Vest Germany and as far west as Hawaii. That is quite a testimonial to DUKE.

Sjef Hoefsmit has suggested that I write a full report. How full is full? That would be quite an undertaking. Right n<m we are very involved in trying to provide Eddie Lantoert and his friends In England with a maximum of information so that any hurdles we met will be easier for them.

To me, the shining aspect of the meeting was all of the very hard work which our local people put In to make the whole shew possible. Nothing could have happened without that extraordinary devotion.

Next In line for credits are those persons who offered their talents to the program. They are all experts and they were ever so willing to share their knowledge and abilities with fellow ELLINGTON enthusinasts.

I am reluctant to suggest what was most of interest to me. I liked the entire program, each part had its place. Some parts were subjective, some were quite objective and will lead to further activity for the sake of ELUNGTONIA. An outstanding example of the latter is the panel of transoribers. There is much woric to be done in this area. The panel provided the STUDY GROUP with seme roots from which se shall proceed and grow.

The past is history. Ctae must be taken with the hope of Joining Eddie Lambert in flsrrg Olds £agXaad next Uay. This will be a marvelous opportunity for enthusiasts in Europe to get together. I can well recall in Washington in 1983 when I was astonished to learn that Eddie Lambert, Sjef Hoefsmit, and Klaus Stratemann had never before seen each other. The meeting next year has been titled ELLINGTON *85 and it will be a rare chance for Europeans with serious interests in ELUNGTONIA to gain closer communication with each other and to meet others of like mind from other parts of the world. I do hope that they will not let each other down.

Let us all plan to be there!

All for the LOVE of DUKE,

Den killer

Couldn't Benny come to Chicago, Chicago came to Benny in form of a visit on June 29th by Mr. Gordon Ewing and his wife Miriam with reports from the conference. During the pleasant afternoon and dinner we mechanged happy memories from earlier days in connection with our common interest. In later years the Ewings became especially interested in Alice Babs. fortunately the A&slands were able to show a video tape frea au Alice Babs /Duke Ellington Sacred Concert given in Stockholm. A rather rare Alice Babs IP was also handed over. Before leaving Sweden they reported to have found 12 more Alice Babs LPs to bring back home. As Gordon described the visit to Sweden* they now had made their "pilgrimage to 'Mecca'". The event was also video-taped.

For the same reason that Benny was unable to go to Chicago* he also had to turn down to go to Paris chosen to represent Sweden in the annual International Jazz Quiz Radio Contest* this time dealing with Ellington and Ellingtonia.
